Dear Mr. Grady

re: City of Sydney Strategic Plan

Enclosed are three press clippings and three press releases which give some details of the progress of the Strategic Plan.

Although the 'Sydney Morning Herald' report of April 23th, 1970 stated that consultants were appointed, the action taken by the City Development Committee was to recommend the appointment of the Urban Systems Corporation. Council actually appointed our firm as consultants on August 10th, 1970.

The other clippings refer in part to the activities of two British Consultants, Professor Alan Proudlove of the University of Liverpool, and Graeme Shankland of Shankland, Cox and Associates. Professor Proudlove and Mr. Shankland are acting as expert consultants to the Urban Systems Corporation and are assisting in the preparation of the Sydney Plan.

To date, Council has not released any more specific or detailed statements (or publications) of progress than those enclosed. However, if any such material is prepared and released for public circulation we will make sure you receive a copy.

Yours faithfully
URBAN SYSTEMS CORPORATION PTY LTD

G. Clarke
Director of Planning
